No Straight Lines: Four Decades of Queer Comics

The LGBT RC works closely with the library and this week we are featuring the book, No Straight Lines: Four Decades of Queer Comics.

Queer cartooning encompasses some of the best and most interesting comics of the last four decades, with creators tackling complex issues of identity and a changing society with intelligence, humor, and imagination. This book celebrates this vibrant artistic underground by gathering together a collection of excellent stories that can be enjoyed by all.

LGBT RC Hours

Until recently, queer cartooning existed in a parallel universe to the rest of comics, appearing only in gay newspapers and gay bookstores and not in comic book stores, mainstream bookstores or newspapers. The insular nature of the world of queer cartooning, however, created a fascinating artistic scene. LGBT comics have been an uncensored, internal conversation within the queer community, and thus provide a unique window into the hopes, fears, and fantasies of queer people for the last four decades.

Question is a space created to promote conversation, questions, and experiences about what it means to be both queer and Christian. We seek to reconcile conflict and confusion between our faith and our sexual orientations/gender identities by understanding both the Christian and secular views. Though the subject matter will be about our queer and/or our Christian aspects, allies of either are welcome and their input is much appreciated.

The Jewish Transgender Gathering

November 2 - 4

Berkeley

In many cities and communities, Jewish trans and gender non-conforming folk are living lives and building communities of strength, but haven't yet had the chance to make connections with each other. Nehirim and the Transgender Religious Leadership Summit (along with other partnering organizations) are bringing together as many of our community as we can to celebrate Shabbat together, to make personal connections, and to expand awareness of Trans Jewish culture for ourselves and others. Writer, educator, and activist Joy Ladin from Yeshiva University in NYC will be teaching, along with rabbis, teachers, and leaders from San Francisco and Los Angeles communities. For more information or to register visit <http://www.nehirim.org/transgathering>.

Transgender Leadership Summit

November 9-11

UC Berkeley

The summit is a one-of-a-kind leadership conference that builds the foundation for trans folks and allies to take action for transgender rights through informative workshops. This year's gathering promises to be even more fun and educational than ever, as we have a weekend packed full of workshops ranging from topics such as developing trans friendly education programs to building community infrastructure in order to accurately respond to tragedies within the trans community.

An exciting addition to the summit this year is a special set of workshops that will be provided by the Transgender Advocacy Network (TAN), a national network of transgender advocacy and educational organizations. Comprised of our nation's most powerful transgender leaders, TAN will present a set of workshops based on the lessons learned from their historical advocacy work performed across the country!
